From the home office to the corporate headquarters, Repetitive Strain Injuries (RSIs) are a serious problem among today's workforce. While the digital and internet revolutions have led to a much more productive, efficient and creative way of working, those countless hours spent on our computers, tablets and smart-phones have taken a serious toll on our bodies. Wrists and hands are at particularly high risk, as workers spend their days typing on less-than-ideal keyboards and moving computer mice around a desktop without any support, often over-stretching their fingers to access faraway keys.

To prevent the development of painful conditions like carpal tunnel syndrome, it's important to supplement your mousing and keyboarding experience with the proper support. You'll find just that in Goldtouch wrist rests and mouse pads.

||| FEATURES AND BENEFITS

- Protects Hands: A keyboard wrist rest or mouse pad will move your wrists and forearms into the proper neutral position, alleviating pressure from your shoulders and preventing your wrists from bending backwards. It will also provide a comfortable resting spot when you're not typing.
- Excellent Trackability: Lycra covers on both wrist rests and mouse pads will prevent irritation caused by friction while also blending nicely with your digital ecosystem.
- Compliments your Devices: Great for people using today's thinner or mini keyboards, as it helps maintain a consistent product height as well as the overall flow of your workspace.
